Reasons for Allowance

1. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.

- a. Kikinis et al. [Kikinis] (U.S. Patent No. 5,805,921) teaches the connection of a non ST506 compliant peripheral device [CD-ROM] to the IDE/ATA data bus. Kikinis does not teach the details of the peripheral device's controller, which allows the peripheral device to work properly with the signals from the IDE/ATA data bus.
- b. Liu et al. [Liu] (U.S. Patent No. 5,446,877) teaches the coupling of a non ST506 compliant peripheral device directly to the IDE/ATA data bus. Liu teaches a peripheral device [tape drive 108] that is directly connected to the host [201] via an IDE/ATA bus. Liu further discloses that the signal formats of the data archival device are different from that of the ST506 specification disk drive. Liu discloses the details of a circuit in the peripheral device controller wherein the circuit ensures that the tape backup device can interface with the IDE/ATA data bus directly while providing for compatibility with the format of existing tape backup systems.
- 2. The following is an examiner's statement of reasons for allowance:

Applicant's claimed invention distinguishes over the prior art for the following reasons.

The claims are allowable over the prior art of record because none of the references, either alone or in combination, discloses or renders obvious the host interface in an optical drive controller directly connected to a host computer via IDE/ATA bus, wherein the host interface including a first buffer addressed by one said ATA command block register addresses and operable to store command packets, each of said command packets comprising multiple command bytes received through multiple writes by said host computer as part of a single command transfer and stored sequentially in said first buffer.

Any comments considered necessary by applicant must be submitted no later than the payment of the issue fee and, to avoid processing delays, should preferably accompany the issue fee. Such submissions should be clearly labeled "Comments on Statement of Reasons for Allowance."
